

MEMORIALS

HAROLD OGDEN JOSEPH BROWN

Harold Ogden Joseph Brown was born on July 6, 1933 in Tampa, FL, and passed into the presence of Christ at his home in Charlotte, NC on July 8, 2007, at the age of 74 years and two days. His father Harold O. Brown was a medical doctor. His mother was Mary Bakas. As a child Harold attended Catholic school and Jesuit High School in Tampa before going on to Harvard College. While in Germany as a Fulbright Scholar exchange student he met a Lutheran woman on the train, who witnessed to him about Christ which led to his salvation. Harold received his B.A. from Harvard College in 1953; an S.T.B. and an S.T.M. from Harvard Divinity School in 1957 and 1959 respectively; and a Ph.D. from Harvard University in 1967.

Harold met Grace Hancox at an InterVarsity camp at Cedar Campus in Michigan in 1961, and they were married on June 16, 1962 in Charlotte, NC. Harold pastored churches in Centerville, Barstable, and Beverly, MA, and also at Park Street Church in Boston, MA from 1961–65. Harold administered the International Fellowship of Evangelical Students in Falls Church, VA from 1966–71 and was associate editor of Christianity Today in Washington, DC from 1971–74. He edited Human Life Review for two years (1974–76). He edited The Religion and Society Report and was a contributing editor for Chronicles: A Magazine of American Culture. Harold served as professor of biblical and systematic theology at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School in Deerfield, IL from 1976–98, taking out four years to pastor the Swiss Reformed Church in Klosters, Switzerland (1983–87). In 1975, Harold and Dr. C. Everett Koop founded the Christian Action Council, an evangelical pro-life action group, which became Care Net, a network of nearly 1100 pregnancy centers. Harold was a member of numerous other organizations and lectured in German and French as well as English. Hundreds of his articles have appeared in National Review, Eternity, Themelios, Human Life Review, Christianity Today, and JETS. Harold was an outstanding athlete and enjoyed crew, skiing, and mountain climbing.

Moving to Charlotte, NC, Harold was John R. Richardson Professor of Theology and Philosophy at Reformed Theological Seminary from 1998–2006 and was semi-retired. Dr. Brown's books include The Protest of a Troubled Protestant (Zondervan, 1969), Christianity and the Class Struggle (Arlington House, 1970), Before the Crash: A Biblical Basis for Economics (1978), War: Four Christian Views (BMH, 1981), Death before Birth (Thomas Nelson, 1977), The Reconstruction of the Republic (Arlington House, 1977), Heresies: The Image of Christ in the Mirror of Heresy and Orthodoxy from the Apostles to the Present, and Sensate Culture (Word, 1996). He was a member of the Evangelical Theological Society for the past ten years.

WILLIAM NEAL BROWNING

William Neal Browning was born January 1, 1925, in Carrollton, MS, the first of four children born to Neal and O'Nita (Thompson) Browning. He attended a country church as a boy, but it was not until after high school at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, FL that he made sure of his salvation in Christ and was called to the ministry. He also met Clara Jean Wiggins at a church in Pensacola, and they were married there on December 24, 1946.

Neal received his B.A. from Bob Jones University in 1950, and his M.A. from Bob Jones one year later. His B.D. degree was obtained at Northern Baptist Seminary in 1960, and his D.Min. was earned at Vanderbilt University in 1973. The Brownings were Baptist missionaries to Japan with The Evangelical Alliance Mission from 1954–81, serving as church planters as well as teaching in a Bible School and at Kagawa University. While on furlough in 1978, Neal became assistant professor of missions and director of missions at LeTourneau College in Longview, TX. Returning from Japan in 1981, Neal joined the U.S. Center for World Mission at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, CA, and started an Institute of Japanese Studies, serving in that capacity for nearly nine years. Neal then planted and pastored for over eight years the Palm City Community Baptist Church in Florida. After moving to California in 2000, Neal pastored the Calvary Baptist Church of Hawthorne, CA until undergoing two heart surgeries at the age of 80. Neal was a member of the Evangelical Theological Society for 30 years.

Neal loved tennis and was an avid reader and student of the Bible. Neal passed into the presence of Christ on May 9, 2007 in Gardena, CA. He lived 82 years, 4 months, and 8 days, and is buried in the Riverside National Cemetery, Riverside, CA. Left to mourn his departure are his wife, Clara Jean Browning of Torrance, CA; son Ronald Neal Browning of Jackson, MS; daughter Janet Marie and her husband Jesus Perez with their children, Jewel, Joshua, and Jacob of Perris, CA; sister Charlotte Wigfield of Clinton, MS; and a number of nieces, nephews, grandnieces, and grandnephews.

LLOYD FULTON DEAN

Lloyd Fulton Dean was born on July 10, 1923 to David F. and Sarah J. (Lloyd) Dean in Cambridge, MA, their only child. His father was from Nova Scotia and managed an ice company in Cambridge. Lloyd attended high school in Medford, MA, and then the family moved several miles away to Winchester, MA, still just north of Boston.

Lloyd attended Boston University from 1940–42, but received his A.B. from Gordon College in 1944, followed by his B.D. from Gordon Divinity School in 1946. He attended Andover-Newton Theological Seminary and Harvard Divinity School for one year each then obtained his M.A. degree from Boston University and Graduate School in 1951 and his Ph.D. in 1954. He joined the Evangelical Theological Society in 1952 and was an active member for 56 years. Lloyd was also a member of the American Philosophical Association, and served as vice president of the Rhode Island Philosophical Society in 1981–82.

Lloyd was ordained a Congregational (CCCC) minister and pastored First Congregational Church, Revere, MA from 1944–50. There Lloyd met his congregation's soloist, Myrle L. Smith. They were married in the Revere Church on June 20, 1952. Lloyd joined the faculty of Gordon College as associate professor and acting chairman of the philosophy department (1950–59). He was voted Teacher of the Year at Gordon College by the Class of 1958. He pastored East Glenville Community Church, Scotia, NY from 1959–67, and was president of the CCCC from 1961–64. He also served on the CCCC Credentials Committee for over 38 years, and was active in the National Association of Evangelicals. Lloyd taught at Community College of Rhode Island from 1967–94, retiring as professor emeritus, but continuing to teach part time from 1995–98. Lloyd asked for and was granted a leave of absence to establish a philosophy major at Geneva College, Beaver Falls, PA from 1975–77. Lloyd was founder and editor of Volumes I, II, and IV of the Gordon Review, which became today's Christian Scholar's Review, and served on the editorial board from 1955–70. He had numerous articles published, and authored Samuel Johnson, a Bibliographical and Chronological Index in 1981 on a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. This took the Deans to England for six months as Lloyd researched the archives of the British Museum and Lambeth Palace.

Lloyd passed away on March 21, 2007 at Kent Hospital, East Greenwich, RI, having lived 83 years, 8 months, and 11 days. Lloyd is buried at Quidnessett Memorial Cemetery, North Kingstown, RI. Left to mourn are his wife, Myrle of East Greenwich, RI; son Jonathan L. Dean of East Greenwich, RI; daughter Judith M. Dean of Washington, D.C.; daughter Janice S. with her husband Samuel Kinder, and their children Elizabeth D., Charlotte F., and James C., of Portsmouth, RI; and granddaughter Eowyn B. Dean of Greenville, SC.

BURTON L. GODDARD

Burton L. Goddard was born on July 4, 1910 on a farm in southern Minnesota. His father was frequently away as a traveling salesman. His mother was the spiritual influence in his life and that of his five siblings. Burton was saved as a student at UCLA, where he earned his A.B. degree with highest honors in history in 1933. He received his Th.B. from Westminster Theological Seminary in 1937 and was ordained that year as an evangelist in the Orthodox Presbyterian Church. He then served as pastor for four years at Carlisle Congregational Church west of Boston while he studied at Harvard University for his S.T.M. (1938), and his Th.D. (1943). He later took his M.L.S. degree from Simmons College in Boston in 1957. Burton was a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary society.

In 1941 Burton Goddard joined the faculty of Gordon College of Theology and Missions. He taught Bible and Christian Education, and then served as Dean, professor of biblical languages and exegesis, then as director of the Library at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary. Upon his retirement in 1975 the library was named The Goddard Library in his honor, he was named emeritus faculty, and later given an honorary doctorate by Gordon-Conwell in 1986.

Dr. Goddard helped found the Evangelical Theological Society as a charter member on December 28, 1949, and over the years served on the editorial committee, membership committee, program and arrangements committee, chairman of the Eastern Section, secretary of the New England Section, and as Vice-President, then President of the Society in 1964. He also helped found Deerwander Bible Conference, Chinese Evangelical Literature Committee, and Boston Christian High School, now Lexington Christian Academy. Some of his published works include editor of The Encyclopedia of Modern Christian Missions (Thomas Nelson, 1967), Animals and Birds of the Bible (Sovereign Grace), Meet Jeremiah: A Devotional Commentary (Kregel), and The NIV Story (Vantage, 1989).

Burton was the first general secretary and then editor and translator of the Committee on Bible Translation which produced the New International Version in 1978. Burton Goddard died on July 22, 2007 in New Oxford, PA, at the age of 97 years and 18 days. He was a member of the Evangelical Theological Society for nearly 58 years. Left to mourn are a sister Miriam Sellers of Iowa, two nieces, a nephew, and many longtime colleagues and friends.

JAMES ALAN GROVES

James Alan Groves was born on December 17, 1952 in Springfield, MO to James and Jacqueline Groves, the first of four children. James's family moved several times between Missouri, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Oklahoma where his father was an FDIC bank examiner. James was saved as a lad of ten in his Sunday School class. His grandparents on his father's side were praying for him to be saved. James was graduated from high school in Aberdeen, SD. He attended Dartmouth College and received his B.A. in 1975, followed by a B.E. (engineering) from Dartmouth in 1976. There he met Elizabeth W. Davis in a campus Christian group. They were married in the Rollins Chapel on the Dartmouth College campus, Hanover, NH on June 17, 1978. At that time, Alan was pastoring the West Fairlee Congregational Church in Fairlee, VT (1976–79).

Further education took the Groves to Westminster Theological Seminary for an M.A.R. degree (1981), followed by a Th.M. in 1983. Alan took graduate studies at Dropsie College in Philadelphia, and at the time of his death was a Ph.D. candidate at the Free University (Amsterdam), working on a thesis, "A Textlinguistic Analysis of Exodus 1–14." At Westminster, J. Alan Groves was a Lecturer in Old Testament (1982–84), Director of Admissions, Dean of Students, Assistant Professor of Old Testament (1984), and Full Professor in 1998. He became Vice-President for Academic Affairs in 2005. Professor Groves became the director (1983), then executive director of the Westminster Hebrew Institute. He produced the Groves-Wheeler Westminster Hebrew Morphology which is now incorporated into Bible software products by Accordance, BibleWorks, Gramcord, Logos, and Wordsearch. He also contributed to the Dictionary of Biblical Imagery and The New Zondervan Pictorial Encyclopedia of the Bible.

James loved to travel. He loved biking which was common during the three times the family lived in the Netherlands. He played basketball, was an avid reader, and loved movies. James was a member of the Evangelical Theological Society for twenty years. He died at Glenside, PA on February 5, 2007, after a struggle with cancer. JAMES ROY TOZER

James Roy Tozer was born on August 9, 1930 in Carlsbad, NM, to A. G. and Ester Lynette (Cole) Tozer, their only child. James's father was a Presbyterian minister in Carlsbad and later took a church in Santa Fe, NM. When James was nine, they moved to Illinois. James was graduated from high school in Waukegan, IL. His B.A. degree was taken from Lake Forest College in Lake Forest, IL in 1952, followed by a B.D. from McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, IL in 1955. James was ordained in 1955 and began pastoring Northminster Presbyterian Church in Indianapolis, IN, where he fell in love with the soloist, Vivian Cooper. James and Vivian were married in the Northminster church on June 18, 1957. James took his Th.M. degree from Christian Theological Seminary of Indianapolis, IN in 1958. In 1970, James received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University in Evanston, IL. James founded the Covenant Presbyterian Church (PCUSA) in West Lafayette, IN in 1958 and pastored that same church until retiring in 1995. James dated his salvation experience to a time ten years after he entered the ministry. In retirement, the Tozers moved to Glen Arbor, MI on Lake Michigan, where they had vacationed for several decades and enjoyed hiking, golf, skiing, and fishing. James penned two additional books about the Glen Arbor area. He studied with Francis Schaeffer at L'Abri, was involved in the National Prayer Breakfast Movement, participated in White House briefings with President George Bush, and was invited by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to meet at Aswan, and then he also met with Prime Minister Menachem Begin in Israel. James and Vivian led nine overseas tours. James joined ETS as a full member in 1985.

Some of James's published works were: The Doctrine of Grace in John Calvin, The Concept of God in the Writings of John Baillie, How Not to be Uptight in an Uptight World, Shared Adventure: The Dynamics of a Discipling Church, Strengthened with All Power, The Christ of Genesis, Mighty in Spirit, and other Bible studies. James served on the Board of Directors of Dubuque University Theological Seminary and the Lafayette Home Hospital.

The Tozers moved to Owens Cross Roads, AL in 2006. James died on October 13, 2007. He lived 77 years, 2 months, and 4 days. He is buried at the Tippecanoe Memory Garden, West Lafayette, IN. Left to celebrate his memory are his wife Vivian of Owens Crossroads, AL; son David Tozer of Indianapolis; and daughter Lynn with her husband Bob Frederick, and their three children, Laura, Rebekah and Anna Grace of Huntsville, AL.

LUKE PAUL WILSON

Luke Paul Wilson was born on January 19, 1949 in Tarentum, Pennsylvania, the second of the six children of John and Lois (Steed) Wilson. The family moved to Grand Rapids when Luke was young, when his father began a 33-year biblical teaching career at Grand Rapids Baptist Bible College. Luke came to Christ after hearing the testimony and seeing the immersion of a believer in their local Baptist church. He attributed the means of his conversion to praying the sinner's prayer with his mother. Luke loved flying and had his pilot's license on his 16th birthday before his graduation from Creston High School. He received his B.R.E. degree from Grand Rapids Baptist College in 1971, and his M.T.S. degree from Calvin Theological Seminary in 1990.

Luke met his future wife, Bertha Island, at a summer Christian Development Center south of Grand Rapids. They were married on July 14, 1974, in the backyard of Luke's parents, in a ceremony presided over by Luke's father John. Two children, Zoe and Karisa, were born in Grand Rapids before Luke and Bertha moved to Muskegon, MI to do home missions work for a few years. Nathan was born in Muskegon around 1981 before the family returned to Grand Rapids where Vida joined the family. Luke was Director of Public Information for Michigan Right to Life from 1984-88 and edited their newsletter. From 1991-2007 Luke was on the board of Grand Rapids Right to Life, and Bertha was also beginning in 1994. Luke served from 1988-2007 as executive director for the Institute of Religious Research, also in Grand Rapids. There he used his skills to teach, research, and counsel while leading that organization. At the time of his death, Luke was two days from leaving for Madagascar to teach and equip Christian leaders there.

Luke lost his wife, Bertha to Myelodysplastic Syndrome in 2006. Due to a heart condition, Luke unexpectedly departed this life on November 13, 2007, at the age of 58 years, 9 months, and 25 days. His funeral was held at Calvary Church, Grand Rapids, MI, and his interment was at Fairplains Cemetery, Grand Rapids. Luke had been an associate member of the Evangelical Theological Society for 10 years. Left to mourn Luke's passing are his daughter Zoe with her son Ian; daughter Karisa; son Nathan; and daughter Vida, all of Grand Rapids; parents, John and Lois Wilson of Grand Rapids; brothers Stephen and his wife, Marcia of Houghton, MI; Philip and his wife Beth of Grand Rapids; Aaron and his wife Trang of Grand Rapids; sisters, Rachel and her husband, Keith Post of Grand Rapids; Ruth and her husband, Martin Green of Grand Rapids; and many other relatives and friends.
